Fall Vegetable Forecast

Fresh vegetables are available throughout the year, but prices vary depending upon supplies. Planning menus using seasonal vegetables is a good way to save money. Specials are often advertized in local newspapers. Alert shoppers watch for these specials and then plan menus accordingly. This fall be prepared to watch for these specials and save money.

Green beans are likely to be a fall special. Crops through September are projected to be 1% above 1973 crops.

Eggplant will be at peak availability through October, however the New Jersey crop is expected to be 2% smaller than a year ago.

Lettuce should also be readily available. Nationally the crop is expected to be 2% greater than in 1973. Steady supplies of cabbage are anticipated through October with this year's production up 4%.

Sweet potato supplies are likely to increase during September and October, heading toward peak supplies in November. Potato harvests during July through September are expected to be 1% above last year. This should improve availability of this popular staple.

Sweet corn will still be available in August but supplies will soon drop rapidly. Tomatoes have passed peak availability but they will be in stores for some time.

If you're looking forward to pumpkin pie, you will have to wait until October, the only month with volume supplies.

In addition to these vegetables, others may be available locally. Remember to check advertised specials for money-saving purchases of seasonal vegetables.

Feed and Wheat Programs Announced

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz recently said that the 1975 feed grain and wheat programs will have no set-aside requirement, and will provide farmers decision-making freedom to produce for the marketplace. He stressed there will be no land removed from agricultural production under these government programs.

As the Department stated when announcing the 1974 program, there will be no conserving base requirement for the duration of the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 (through the 1977 crop year). Nor will the provision be implemented during the life of the 1973 Act which gives the Secretary discretionary authority to limit feed grain and wheat to a percentage of allotments.

The Secretary pointed out that the allotments under programs authorized under the 1973 Farm Bill do not represent a limit on acreage, but are computed only for the purpose of payments to producers should such payments be required. Generally, the allotments for wheat and feed grains represent the number of acres harvested of wheat, corn, grain sorghum and barley based on the estimated national average yield which would result in production equal to estimated domestic and export disappearance in the 1975-76 marketing year.

Also as in 1974, the producers may substitute any non-conserving crop or any conserving crop used for hay or for grazing in order to preserve their wheat, or feed grain allotments and to make them eligible for any payments under the target price feature. Crops for which a marketing quota is in effect are excluded.

Because of the market-oriented nature of these programs, producers will be studying prices rather than allotment acreages, Secretary Butz said. The price incentive should result in full plantings and with normal weather conditions should enable the U.S. to not only fulfill domestic and export requirements but to build up much needed stocks as well, he said.

Secretary Butz said today's announcement will provide farmers with the information they need to make their 1975 crop plantings decisions. Additional program provisions will be announced after the Department has had an opportunity to make a better determination of 1974 production, he said.

Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking

A series of five consecutive group therapy sessions usually held for one hour each evening. These sessions include:

1. Lectures or discussion by a pastor-medical team on the psychological aspects of the smoking problem. 2. Films on smoking and its harmful effects on body and mind. 3. Demonstrations of procedures helpful to overcome the smoking habit without drugs. 4. Exchange of experience by participants as they fight the habit and are recognized effective Five-Day Plan.

II. A personal control program that reaches into every minute of the individuals waking life. A special booklet entitled "Your Five Day Plan" tells him: 1. How to relax; 2. How to avoid familiar spots or activites that might lead to a smoke; 3. When to exercise and how to breathe; 4. What to eat and drink; 5. Even what to think at crucial times; 6. How to meet the habit of smoking on a physical, mental, social, and spiritually combined basis.

III. A buddy system similar to that used by Alcoholics Anonymous is a vital part of the program and follow-up after the course closes.

Who Sponsors It? Sponsored as a community service by the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Ever since it origin the Adventist Church has held that the use of tobacco and alcohol is harmful to health. Therefore, its members do not smoke or drink. The Sloan-Kettering Institute, knowing this, used the members in a study on the incidence of lung cancer among smokers and non-smokers. It discovered that incidence of lung cancer among the nonsmoking Adventists was only 10 percent of the average in the U.S.

The Church is sponsoring this Plan as a part of its contribution to the physical-fitness program of the nation at a time when clear minds and healthy citizens are needed. It is a part of the Church's cooperation with the cancer society and other organizations which are urging an educational program about the effects of smoking. Origin: The Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking was developed by the Seventh-Day Adventist denomination. It began in New England with one of the first course held in Claremont, New Hampshire, by a Seventh-day Adventist pastor, Elman J. Folkenberg, and an Adventist physician, Dr. J. Wayne McFarland. Forty persons attended the course which was held in a hotel ballroom. Thirty of the forty attending stopped smoking.

Subsequently, the Plan was tested in several other New England towns, in factories, high schools, hospitals, and for the general public in city halls, etc. The Plan,Mr. Brodersen says, has been observed and commended by the well-known chest surgeon, Dr. Alton Oehsner, and by heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White.

Preliminary surveys reveal that by the third day of group therapy, approximately 50 percent of the participants lose their craving for tobacco. By the fifth evening, 70 percent or more have either lost their craving or it is so diminished that they have the problem under control.

The Plan has now been held repeatedly in the major cities in the United States and Canada. It is also being conducted in Europe, Australia, and most other parts of the world.

Results: During 1972 alone, it was estimated that over two million people throughout the world, and Approximately 350,000 in North America, stopped smoking through the Five-Day Plan. This number is increasing year by year as successful participants encourage friends and relatives to choose better living and the pleasure of nonsmoking.
